

Did You Know 8.12.21

1. Helperbird is a good tool for students with dyslexia and ADHD that combines features including dyslexia fonts, text to speech with natural voices, OCR, dictation, immersive reader, overlays, dyslexia rulers, word prediction, reader mode and more. To find out how Helperbird works, check out this website: A Powerful Accessibility and Dyslexia Tool to Use with Your Students | Educational Technology and Mobile Learning \(educatorstechnology.com\)
2. Another app called “Drawp for School” has a Resource Marketplace Marketplace \(drawpforschool.com\) that offers cool content. The specific lesson I looked at on Digestion, outlines the process and shares a number of resources including models, reading assignment, quizzes and the full lesson plan. The Digestive System - Lifelike Lesson Plan With 3d \(drawpforschool.com\)
3. Think for Yourself—The Teacher Might be Wrong! Watch this TedEd Educator talk about Anti-Racism in the classroom. How to be an anti-racist teacher in a mostly white school | Taryn Coe - YouTube

As the new COVID-19 Variant is on the rise, you might find some of these resources helpful for students and faculty alike. Check out these important links to engage students in discussion while allowing them time to explore the hows and whys: COVID-19 Resources for Teachers and Educators | Educational Technology and Mobile Learning \(educatorstechnology.com\)